THE SUN, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1909. HIGHLANDERS LOSE AND NOSED OUT BY RED SOX IN MORNING FRACAS. Take the Second With a Lively Spurt in the Last Inning-Two Victories for the Detroits and Two for the Ath-The Detroits and Athletics each won wo games yesterday, and there was no elative change in their positions. The ligers enjoyed themselves at the expense of the Browns, making an uphill fight for the morning victory. The Athlettes had the Washingtons to dally with. The High-landers had an eventful day in Boston. They were beaten in the morning after they looked like winners, while in the afternoon they looked like losers and yet turned the tables. The Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Naps beat each other. Boston, 10; New York, 9-Morning game New York, 9; Boston, 6-Afternoon game. Cleveland, 5; Chicago, 2-Morning game. Chicago, 5: Cleveland, 8-Afternoon Boston, Sept. 6 .- Nearly everything that could be crowded into two baseball games was done by the Highlanders and the Red Sox, with the result that the weirdest games of the season were witnessed here to-day by two large crowds. The Red Sox won in the morning 10 to 9 in ten innings, while New York took the afternoon contest 9 to 6. trim the locals and amassed what looked like safe leads, but both in the morning and afternoon the locals tied the score and went ahead. In the second game, however, the Red Sox seemed too confident after taking the lead and blew up in the ninth inning, allowing New York to get away with the game. Walter Manning started the first game as though he was going to shut Boston out, but the locals found him after the fourth and made ten runs off him. Why he was left in so long puzzled the fans. The Highlanders scored one run in the second inning without making a hit. Again in the third inning one hit and some poor playing by the Boston infield gave them another tally. Two more runs were sent across the pan in the fourth on two hits, an error by Speaker and a sacrifice fly. Singles by Chase and Engle and an error accounted for another run in the fifth. In the seventh Chase broke the tie by hitting a home run with Demmitt on second, and hits by Laporte and Knight sent in the eighth run. One hit in the ninth following Boston poked along for four innings Boston poked along for four innings without scoring, but a fusiliade of hits and errors in the fifth inning left the score tied at five apiece when the dust cleared away. Again in the eighth the Red Sox almost tied the score by scoring twice on a double and two singles. With their side one run to the bad in the ninth, Lord and Speaker took it upon themselves to tie the score again by hammering out a single and home run. In the tenth McConnell tripled with one down and scored on a wild pitch. To go into detail of the runs scored in the afternoon contest would be almost useriess, as it reads almost the same as the morning contest except that it did not go into extra innings. The Highlanders got away in the lead and were caught by the locals about half way. Then the Red Sox forged to the front and held a two run lead when the final inning opened. Two hits, a base on balls, a hit batsman and two errors in this inning gave New York five runs. By changing pitchers the visitors kept the Red Sox runless in their half and left town with a smile on their faces. The score: Totals... 36 7 27 12 4 Batted for August in the ninth inning. MARRIEREAD, Mass., Sept. 6 .- Through dent Taft and Governor Draper cups has become a match race between the Ellen of Boston and the Joyette of New York. The German yachts that came here to race against the American boats have been against the American boats have been eliminated, the Hevella, the last of the trio, being beaten to-day after she had won one race. She had made a gallant showing in the five races in which she had sailed. but was not quite equal to defeating the home boats. She won one first, two sectonds, a fourth and a fifth place. Otto Protzen, who handled her, studied the conditions each day carefully and he showed that he was the equal of the American yachtsmen who sailed against him. Now that the Hevella has been eliminated has been announced that she has been only German boat to go home. She has to sail in a regatta at Hamburg on Sep-tember 26 and arrangements are being made to have her shipped at once from New York. The German yachtsmen have

Number of Accidents, but No One

There were a number of minor accidents but no one was seriously injured. The worst reported injury was broken leg sustained by Albert Dennis, mechanic sustained by Albert Dennis, mechanic on the Knox car driven by Fred Shaw. Patrick Bridges, his son Joseph and J. F. Tracy were knocked down when the Knox ran off the road, but escaped with bruises. A woman was struck by Lorimer's Chalmers-Detroit when the driver lost control of it in his eighteenth lap, but she was retrophy was won by Robert Burman in a Buick in 8 hours 49 minutes, 8 seconds.

Ernest Stoecker in a Benz was second in 4 hours 2 minutes 35 seconds. Burt Ding-ley was third in a Chalmers-Detroit in 4 hours 4 minutes 10 seconds. Lewis Strang was fourth in a Buick in 4 hours 6 minutes s seconds. W. H. Sharp was fifth in a harp Arrow in 4 hours 9 minutes 50 seconds. The protest against the Chalmers-Detroit car driven by William Knipper, which finished first in the race for the Merrimac Valley trophy for not carrying a hood at all times during the progress of the race was considered late to-night by the con-test board of the American Automobile

Association. Its decision was in effect that the place where the hood was dropped would have been dangerous for the car to have stopped within any reasonable distance to pick it up, and the protest was ot sustained. Louis Chevrolet won the 159 mile race for the Yorick Club trophy in 2 hours 58 minutes 17 seconds. Ray W. Harroun was second in a Buick in 3 hours 15 minutes

William Knipper in a Chalmers-Detroit won the Merrimac Valley trophy race of 137.2 miles in 2 hours 28 minutes 43 seconds. William Sickinger was second in a Maxwell in 2 hours 43 minutes 54 seconds. Thomas Costello was third in a Maxwell in 2 hours 44 minutes 1 second. Joe Matson was fourth in a Chalmers-Detroit in 2 hours 52 minutes 16 seconds. Louis A. Disbrow was fifth in a Buick in 2 hours 53 minutes 37 seconds. Frank Gelnaw was sixth in 17 seconds. the races started and instead of the first car being sent away by Starter Wagner at 100 clock, it was not until 10:30 that L. B. Lorimer was sent away in one of the two 40 horse-power Chalmers-Detroit Blue Birds, that had been entered as candidates for the Vesper Club trophy for the largest cars that raced to-day.

The race officials hoped that President Taft would run over from Beverly in his automobile to occupy the gorgeously decorated box that was arranged for the Presidential party, and which no one was permitted to enter when Mr. Taft failed to appear. the races started and instead of the first mitted to enter when Mr. Tart lailed to appear.

As to-day's events are regarded as only a sort of curtain raiser for the heavy car race of 318 miles on Wednesday when nearly twenty of the fastest stock cars of this country and Europe are expected to compete for the Lowell trophy, the club officials were not greatly disappointed when the fine big grand stand was not filled up.

The big car race to-day was very much like the Vanderbilt cup race of 1905, when the dashing Lanoia led his field a long chase the fine big grand stand was not filled up.

The big car race to-day was very much like the Vanderbilt cup race of 1905, when the dashing Lanoia led his field a long chase for most of the race, only to be put out of the running by an accident when he was ahead and victory seemed within his grasp. To-day L. B. Lorimer, driver of the Chalmers-Detroit, that was the first car to start, played a part such as Lancia and his Flat did on Long Island four years ago.

The last of the little cars had been gone away from the grand stand only a minute or so when Lorimer was seen racing along the back stretch, a short distance away across the fields in front of the grand stand. On the first round he was first to pass the grand stand, and on this round he and Robert Burman, the ultimate victor, were tied with ten miles, fifty-eight seconds each for the round.

From then on until after he had completed his seventeenth round Lorimer was the undisputed leader. His time for seventeen laps was 13 minutes 13 seconds faster than that of Burman for the same distance. Lorimer's fastest round was his eighth, which he completed in 10 minutes 31 seconds, better than a sixty miles an hour average, but he kept his lead by the steadiness with which he drove rather than by dashes of great speed. He did not stop until his seventeenth round, when he halted only a few moments to take on gasolene. His time for the 180.2 miles of the seventeen laps was 182 minutes 28 seconds. For the first ten laps, or 127.2 miles, half race distance, his time was 128 minutes 25 seconds.

It was about 2 o'clock when disaster overtook Lorimer. He was driving along the backstretch on Varnum avenue when he suddenly lost control of his car, which dashed off the road, ran between two trees and smashed into a house. A woman who had been sitting on the lawn in front of the house. Mrs. Fannie W. Eaton of Brockton, was knocked over and one of her legs was broken. The steering gear had been put out of commission in such a way that Lorimer could not control the machine. The
